Get your Reading back on track with

Ros Ferrara.

Three high quality half-day training sessions with the inspirational Ros Ferrara for all Teachers and English Subject Leaders.

Session 1 Getting Back on Track in the English Curriculum– —November 10th 9:30-12

The return to school following the months of closure has created real challenges for leaders and class teachers. The need to ensure that all pupils' learning needs are met and that any gaps are closed without significant impact on the required year group curriculum expectations is of paramount importance, but also extremely challenging.

This event looks closely at the key aspects of the English curriculum which must be secured and how to integrate these into planning for the year without losing sight of the year group expectations. It considers the use of flexible models and approaches that take into account any further possible partial school closures and aim to ensure that children meet the expected standard in reading and writing by the end of the year.

Session 2 Developing Readers Across the Primary School January 26th 9:30-12

Teaching reading continues to be an area of development for many schools and many teachers. This event looks at the teaching of reading from early years through to KS2 with the aim of developing fluent, effective and motivated readers and ensuring that any initial gaps are closed and gaps do not develop as pupils move through primary school. It offers a range of approaches, strategies and resources.

Session 3 - Deep Dive in Reading March 16th 9:30-12

How robust is your reading curriculum? Would it stand up to a deep dive during an inspection?

The current Inspection Framework has a sharp focus on reading with a mandatory deep dive into early reading with the expectation that all aspects of reading are high priority so that all pupils become fluent, confident readers. This course considers all aspects of the reading curriculum, offering practical guidance and resources to reflect on current contexts and to develop an effective and focused whole school approach.
